MUTUAL RESPECT BETWEEN COMPANIONS AND AHLUL BAYT

Abstract

Mutual respect between members of Ahlul Bayt and the first generation of companions, as well as in-law relationships and naming each others' children, recorded in authentic Islamic sources, confirm that there was no conflict or hostility between members of Ahlul Bayt and the companions. Relevant traditional and historical sources challenge and refute the claims of all of those who, by hiding behind the Prophet's, sallallaahu 'alaihi wa sallam, honorable family and events related to it, dared to invent and accuse the companions, friends of the Prophet, that they allegedly done oppression and were unfair to the members of the honourable Prophet's Ahlul Bayt and denied them their rights.

KEYWORDS: companions, Ahlul Bayt, respect, love, in-law relationships, naming children
